

Privacy Policy

The statement and the policy outlined herein are not intended in or on behalf of any party to create any contractual or other legal rights.

How AFDF Security collect your personal information

As part of the course of our business, AFDF Security collects personal information about individuals. Information collected is solely used by AFDF Security. AFDF Security might collect personal information when:

- An individual (or the organization represented by the individual) opens an account
- A service is agreed upon for AFDF Security to conduct for you
- Email, letter or telephone interaction is dealt
- Our website and/or phone is visited by you

Information collected by AFDF Security (although not exclusive) may include your name, mailing address, telephone numbers, cheque, bank & credit card payment details and Email address. AFDF Security may acquire personal information about you from a third party, for example a marketing company or a credit reporting agency.

How AFDF Security use personal information

Our usual practice is to obtain personal information directly from you. AFDF Security only use your personal information for the reasons for which it is collected from you and for related internal management reasons. The main reason AFDF Security collect any personal information is in order for us to be able to provide you with our goods and services. AFDF Security may use personal information to assist us in identifying goods and services that may interest you.

Keeping Information up to date

If you realise that the current information AFDF Security carries about you is inaccurate, then you should contact us so we can update your profile. AFDF Security takes reasonable steps so that information collected is accurate.

Requesting personal information about your profile

If it is of interest for you to seek personal information AFDF Security carry about you, then you may email or call us. It is required that we verify your identity before disclosing any information. If you wish to file a complex request, we ask of you to submit in writing via Email.

We may not disclose information to you

In certain circumstances we may not be able to grant you access to your personal information where the information is relevant to anticipated legal proceedings or if the information requested may reveal commercially sensitive information.

How we will store your personal information

To protect your personal information from misuse, AFDF Security will take reasonable steps to protect it from loss and theft.

Contacting Us

If you wish to discuss any questions regarding AFDF Security's Privacy Policy, please feel free to contact us via email; info@afdfsecurity.com.au or via telephone on 0450 086 066.